ANIMAL WELFARE POLICY

According to a plan, perhaps divine, perhaps evolutionary, but in any even, not the result of human intervention, we share the fragile environment of this planet with the animal kingdom; a kingdom of wild creatures in wilderness areas we must preserve; a kingdom of domesticated creatures who with us share our fields and meadows, our very homes, creature who, like us are born in a state of total dependence on parents or other adults; creatures who suffer pain, endure the pangs of hunger, shiver in the cold, swelter in the heat, recoil from cruelty, suffer from neglect, experience the ravages of disease, respond to loving care, and are comforted by clean, adequate living space just as humans.

While recognizing the benefit to humanity derived from effective research into causes of and cures for disease and the need of the people of the World for an adequate food supply, the Westmoreland Agricultural Fair and Recreation Association reaffirms as one of its basic corporate objectives the understanding and preservation of the basic needs of animals – wild and domestic.

This Association determines to devote its resources and programs to the understanding and preservation of such needs.
